

This trajectory implies a EEVEEJSA fly-by sequence with an overall mass consumption of 192kg. The global search technique used is conceptually equal to the one used by the Team 17. It seems that also deep space manouvres have been allowed in this case, when searching for ballistic solutions. The lower objective function value achieved may be due to an incomplete enumerative search of the possible fly-by sequences.